

The Devils Water is one of the major tributaries of the River Tyne, draining from Hexham Common before running through a tight bed rock canyon, forest and farmland before finally joining the River Tyne above Corbridge. The Swallowship beat runs from Linnels Bridge for 1.6 km through haughland and canyon ending as the river emerges into farmland above Dilston. The beat offers a mix of grades of fishing with wide open pools and steep sided rock cliffs to test even the most daring angler!

Angling Tips! Coming soon!

- Length of fishing
- Species permitted
- Period available
- Rules
- Banks included
- Max. no of anglers
- Upstream limit
- Downstream limit
- Where to park
- Wading difficulty
- Other information

1.6 km
 Brown Trout; Sea Trout and Salmon (occasionally present)
 Brown Trout: 22nd March—30th September
 Sea Trout: 3rd April—31st October
 Salmon: 1st February— 31st October
 Fly only. Catch and release.
 No dogs or picnics.
 North only (left bank)
 2
 Field boundary downstream of Linnels Bridge
 Edge of wood at West Haugh
 Layby on north side of Linnels Bridge
 River bed varies from gravel banks to rock floor—easy/moderate
 Major hazard—canyon 750m downstream of start. Experienced anglers only past this point.

Directions:
 Take the B6306 out of Hexham to the south for 2 miles until you reach a narrow stone bridge. Park just before the bridge.

Tyne Angling Passport
 RUN BY TYNE RIVERS TRUST

To book please visit

www.tyneriverstrust.org/Tyne-Angling-Passport